

Group Q1 2022 Highlights

Record Q1 Revenue Amid Continued Supply Chain Challenges

To address the shortage of certain silicon components generally faced by the industry, we have implemented various measures to ensure our customers' needs are met. These include increasing our inventory levels, diversifying our supply base, and working closely with our suppliers to secure alternative sources of components. As a result, we have successfully maintained our production levels and delivered high-quality products to our customers throughout the quarter.
